(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)
PETERSBURG, VA., Sept. 9, 1885.
The Democratic Senatorial Convention which met in this city last night to nominate a candidate for the district composed of Petersburg and the counties of Prince George and Surry was one of the finest bodies of its kind that has assembled here in many years. The spirit of the Convention was superb, and in the face of an adverse majority of several hundreds and of a fee confident in the prestige of victory in many campaigns, was rethis city about ten years ago, where he has become thoroughly identified with our interests, and where he has built up a large and successful business. He stands now at the head of our successful purchases. He entered the Conful merchants. He entered the Con-federate army at an early age, served gallantly to the close of the war, was cotton each season is always an event in mercantile circles. Within the past two days two bales of the new crop rain this season, it may be mentioned that generally throughout Dinwiddie county there have been good rains throughout the season, and the crops there are exceptionally fine. In Greensville, Sussex, and the counties to the east there have been frequent rains. In some sections of Brunswick and Mecklenburg counties there have been no good rains since July, and in other localities none since June. As a consequence the crops are greatly damagedalmost ruined. The tobacco is small and parched, and much of the corn has been cut down and stacked for fodder.

Business generally has been exceedingly dull, but begins to be more active with the approach of the fall season. A prominent leaf-tobacco dealer sold yesterday to one firm fifty hogsheads of wrappers at an average of $40, which aggregated $14,000 or thereabouts, and there is one happy man in town at least. DEATHS.

The deaths last week of Mrs. Fanny King, widow of the late James A. King, and of Mrs. Elizabeth Carrington, widow of the late Edward Carrington, widow of the late Edward Carrington, will be heard of with deep regret by many readers of the Dispatch. Mrs. King's death was very sudden. Mrs. Carrington had been in feeble health for some time. Both were among the kindest, gentlest spirits of earth, and they will be painfully missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

BOLD ROBBERY. A few mornings since Mr. J. G. Gar-land, proprietor of the Shepperd Hotel, on awakening found that his chamber had been entered during the night and his pants, with $260 in cash, stolen. One of the waiters of the hotel was arrested and sent to jail upon strong circumstantial evidence, but none of the money was recovered. BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Mr. H. G. Howard, of the Howard House, is improving, and hopes of his recovery are entertained.
Our candidates—Edmunds, Noblin, and Jordan—are in fine spirits. The best news reaches here daily, and I am assured upon undoubted authority that the colored people will vote the straight Democratic ticket, State and county, in large numbers. Many of the colored leaders who heretofore have been very active against us proclaim their inten-tion of leaving the Republicans. They are disgusted with promises and unfair treatment. Fitz Lee's majority will be wonderfully increased by Halifax. PHIL.

ABINGDON, VA., September 9.— There was a chapter of accidents in this county to-day. Mr. James Ar-nett went out this morning with a double-barrelled shot-gun to shoot crows that were destroying his corn. The Republican Senatorial Convention for this district will be held here to-morrow at noon. It is the general impression that Mr. Charles Gee, of Prince George Conventions of the was found dead in the corner of the fence on the main road with the top of his head shot off. It is not known how he was killed, but it is supported to Exting up his gun, when the hammer caught in the fence and caused the discharge of the gun, with the result above stated. This theory is very probably correct, as blood and brains were found on the top rail of the fence. The jury of inquest returned a verdict of accidental shooting. Mr. Arnett was a member of General Fitz Lee's regiment, and is said to have been one of the bravest and best of soldiers. He leaves three small children, who are now with-

He enjoyed the confidence and good-will of his professional brethren in a marked degree, and was loved and honored by this whole community. His life was sacrificed to the claims of his patients. For three years he was a sufferer from chronic dysentery, and his judgment long ago told him that absolute cessation from the laborious and exacting demands of his practice was requisite to his recovery, but he could not gain his own consent to stop work until he had gotten beyond a point where neither rest nor medical skill could avail.

To the Editor of the Dispatch: Please allow the writer to make a suggestion through your columns to the "Committee of the Fire Department," that when the alarm is first turned in the bells shall be rung for a few minutes—one or two will be sufficient— to give notice, after which allow the number of the box only to be struck, at intervals, at the different stations. It is impossible to locate a fire when all of the bells are ringing and the stations striking the number of the box at the same time.

Among all the delegates (and the Convention was a full one) was evinced the determination to fight a good fight, and, if possible, wrest vic-tory from the enemy. And it may truly be said the Convention made a truly be said the Convention made a splendid start in this direction by conferring the nomination upon Mr. R. M. Dobie, of this city. He is a gentleman in whom the people have thorough confidence, and against whose standing and character in the community not even the most unprincipled politician can utter a word. Mr. Dobie is yet a young man, and one who has never known failure in anything he has undertaken. He is a native of Sussex county, and came to this city about ten years ago, where he morelands, two amateur clubs of the city, which resulted in a victory for the Commercials had the first chance at the bat, and in it made two hits, which, assisted by an error or two, yielded them two runs. In this inning the Westmorelands were blanked, but they made one in the second and four in the third, which put them two ahead of their opponents. This, however, was soon altered when the Commercials, in their next chance, added three to their score, which gave them the lead, which they held till the game was called at the end of the seventh inning, the score then standing 11 to 8 in their favor. The batteries during the first part of the contest were Casey and Fulcher for the Commercials and Mackie and Zimmerman for the Westmorelands. They were

It was not positively known Tuesday night whether any one was drowned in the dock when Mr. Lawrence was knocked into the water or not, although a number of bystanders declared that there was. No effort was made to recover the body for an hour afterward, if at all, although there were suggestions made to send for a boat and drag the water. It appears that the statement of the bystanders was entirely correct.

Yesterday morning several persons dragged the dock for the body, and dragged the dock for the body, and
